4-H2O Camp

The Flint RiverQuarium will welcome more than 100 4-H members from surrounding counties Monday, June 27 as part of the fifth annual 4-H2O Camp. The Flint RiverQuarium, University of Georgia's C. M. Stripling Irrigation Research Park and Southwest Georgia 4-H are once again teaming up to offer the three-day summer camp to 4-H students June 27-29. 4-H'ers will participate in hands-on science activities focusing on water and ecosystems with a special behind-the-scenes and exhibit tour at the Flint RiverQuarium on the first day. The next day, 4-H'ers will be introduced to agricultural topics at the research park in Camilla, GA. The participants will then have some fun in the sun on the final day at Water World in Dothan, AL.

The Flint RiverQuarium is southwest Georgia's premier aquarium, featuring more than 1,000 animals that call the Flint River watershed home. The Flint RiverQuarium is located at 101 Pine Avenue in downtown Albany, Georgia. Regular operating hours are Monday-Friday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Sunday 1 p.m.-5 p.m.
